

MARISSA JACKSON

Marissa joined Close Up in February 2023. After spending 18 years in America, she relocated back to her home town Cape Town in 2018 where she is currently based. She fell in love with NYC at a young age after a visit there. She went on to get her B.F.A with a major in photography at The School of Visual Arts in NYC. Marissa started out her career as a Photographer and then moved into producer roles at branding and advertising agencies, producing ads for top beauty and fashion brands. Marissa simultaneously started her freelance social media marketing business in 2019 where she manages various brands social and marketing elements.